

Synergy Award

At the meeting of the Royal Pharmaceutical Society's Council in April 2000 it was agreed that an award should be made annually to a person who is not a pharmacist but who has made an outstanding contribution to the pharmacy profession, to be known as the Synergy Award. It was further agreed that this award should be made at the discretion of the President and announced at the British Pharmaceutical Conference.

The award is a sculpture by James Reynolds FRPharmS, a former Editor of Martindale.
